A novel positive-feedback interaction of lymphoid-specific kinase (LSK) and FLT3 during the development of helper T cells. Helper T-cell development involves a series of sequential positive-feedback interactions between cell-surface receptors. These interactions occur between germ-line encoded receptors present at the surface of developing T cells (membrane proximal signals) and protein tyrosine kinase-coupled receptors expressed later on the T-cell surface (membrane distal signals). These events determine whether T-cell development will proceed or be arrested at a particular stage. The earliest contacts between the T-cell receptors and the helper cytokine receptors are mediated by a combination of signaling molecules, such as LCK, ZAP-70, PLC gamma, PYK2, and FLT3. However, the nature of the first positive-feedback interaction between LCK and FLT3 has not been established and, consequently, the role of FLT3 has remained ambiguous. To begin to define the earliest events in T-cell development, we have examined the in vivo function of FLT3 using a mouse knock-in strategy. We report that expression of functional FLT3 leads to complete skewing of the earliest thymic progenitor cells to CD4+CD8+ common progenitor cells as well as to a transient and concomitant increase in both the number and the overall size of the CD4+8+ cells. In the periphery, the thymus-derived cells are further skewed toward the CD4+8- double-positive cell population, indicating a role for FLT3 in regulating the fate of CD4+8- precursors. We also demonstrate that a functional SHP-2 domain is required for FLT3 signaling and that the observed effects of FLT3 expression are largely restricted to the T cell lineage. These findings provide a novel role for FLT3 and SHP-2 in the earliest phases of T-cell development.

Q: creating a video recording application
I need to create a video recording application in java but I don't know where to start. I have looked at this example: I am new to java so what I want to know is how do I create my own class to record video and image:
For example: do something like `camera.startRecording();`
