by offering free legal game downloads. Metal halide lamps are utilized in industry and in the home. Metal halide lamps are rated to operate at various wavelengths. For example, blue lamps have a rated operating wavelength of 450 to 480 nm, while blue/green lamps have a rated operating wavelength of 400 to 480 nm. In the manufacturing process of the metal halide lamps, a quartz arc tube is typically sealed by applying a sealing paste around the arc tube before being placed within an outer lamp envelope. The paste may be applied by a variety of methods, including dipping and roll-on techniques. The arc tube may be dipped directly into the sealing paste, or the arc tube may be dipped into a dipping tank of the sealing paste. The arc tube may then be rotated or rolled on the surface of the sealing paste, or the arc tube may be drawn through a length of the dipping tank where the sealing paste is stored. The 3e33713323
